Visual Art lived in first person

Mary Virginia Swanson helps us to find our audience

The passions, if in addition to being experienced, were also structured and channeled, perhaps in addition to meeting the spirit, we could also help meet the "belly"!

The first step to make in this direction is to find those who are willing to buy our creations, that is our audience...the workshop organized by Escuela PIC.A - PIC.A Escuela Internacional Alcobendas PHotoEspaña, held in the surprising and magnificent Centro de Arte Alcobendas, coordinated by the beautiful and efficient Emily Adams and masterfully held by the talented and competent creative consultant in photography, Mary Virginia Swanson, has been a powerful tool for the attendees to succeed in this difficult task.

The group of 15 attendees were from Spain, German, Norway, Mexico and Italy; all of them with full passion for photography and with the hope that it fills an important space in their own lives, as well as a source of incomes...there is no best thing that we can live, doing what most we love to do...and PIC.A school and Mary Virginia Swanson offered us the opportunity to get closer to this possibility...

Now, it's up to us to turn the recommendations into reality: trying, persevering and not giving up ever won!

Mary Virginia web-site is <http://mvswanson.com/> it is full of invaluable resources for photographers; moreover, MVS marketing blog <http://mvswanson.com/category/mvs-marketing-blog> is full of upcoming opportunities for photographers. She also offers one-to-one consulting and she is available to evaluate to schedule workshops everywhere.

Mi voz es un árbol: representation of an announced tragedy in four acts

I Love Trees ... in them I find the perfection of simplicity and majesty of humility. Walking in the woods, across a park or even walk down any street or square with trees in the most chaotic city, produces nice feeling to take possession of the space and allows the soul to be filled with serenity and slowness.

All I told you before, contrasts with the millennial harassment we are perpetuating against the trees that sometimes becomes a massive and ruthless destruction; the result is a landscape without any hint of poetry. When this happens, the spirit impoverishes, imagination turns off, the routine takes over the souls and sentences life sentence to the disappearance...

" Mi voz es un árbol" is the trees perspective of their story that they tell us through my eyes and my feelings, like a visual stagy play in four acts :

- Act I - Challenge
- Act II - Harassment
- Act III - Solitude
- Act IV - Forgetfulness

Orden y Caos

Beauty in repetition finds unexpected and visually appealing patterns. What I propose is a "photo-graphic" game. Starting from one or more images taken in the same session, I re-visiting them, look at them and re-build with a different perspective, looking for repetitions or linkages that were hidden in each picture and to reveal them, I needed to put together different pieces, repeating the same piece, flip them and find combinations in which randomness, graphics and aesthetics meet together. The result is a series of polyptychs, made by nine images that have possibly saved or lost their own relationship to the original space, to prioritize the pursuit of beauty for all:

meeting the order from the apparent chaos ...

News, opportunities and events

PIC.A Escuela Internacional Alcobendas PHotoEspaña offers a very interesting educational program, including many workshops focused on no-technical aspects of photography; all of them are organized in the beautiful Centro de Arte Alcobendas. After Mary Virginia Swanson workshop, PIC.A organized one with Emmanuelle Hascoët: "Create an exhibition project" and in February (8th and 15th) one with Gonzalo Golpe y Rubén García-Castro: "Create your personal photography web-site".
